'Building Financial Strength for First Responder Families'

Nick Daugherty teaches "Building Financial Strength in Police/Firefighter Families" to numerous agencies and police academies across the state of Texas. Utilizing the principles of Dave Ramsey, he has helped hundreds of officer's work towards a debt free lifestyle and financial freedom. To date almost 2,000 first responders have been through his training. He has the heart of a teacher and a passion for teaching first responders and their families how to handle their finances and plan for the future so that officers can move from having to work longer than they have to and giving them the ability to comfortably retire when they want to.
